

BIOGRAPHY FOR BONNIE MILLER

Bonnie Miller is the mother of a 35-year-old daughter with PDD (Pervasive Development Disorder) and Bipolar Disorder. By effectively advocating for her daughter to have the opportunity for more choice and control in her life, Bonnie became a change agent. As the Coordinator of the Pennsylvania Self-Determination Consumer and Family Group and a member of the Pennsylvania Waiting List Work Group, Bonnie effectively advocated for systems change to enable individuals and families to have the same choice and control that she had achieved for her daughter. Bonnie continues to train individuals and families and promote self-determination. Bonnie, her husband, and daughter live in Greencastle, Pennsylvania.

Ms. Miller is professionally affiliated with the Office of Developmental Programs, Disability Rights Network of Pennsylvania, TASH, the Pennsylvania Waiting List Campaign, the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania Office of Developmental Programs, and the International Parent-to-Parent Conference Committee.
